Twenty more ships have been blown out of Japan's vanishing merchant and fighting fleets by American torpedoes and bombs.

Night flying Liberators sank a destroyer and damaged two other ships Saturday night in the Halmaera sea, off New Guinea. MacArthur's path from New Guinea to the Philippines, Southwest Pacific headquarters announced today (Tuesday). Two direct hits left another destroyer dead in the water and probably sinking off Manokwari in Western Dutch New Guinea where a small freighter was sunk.

Nipponese Flanked
Destruction of 16 more ships by submarines and two by Central Pacific bombers were announced by the Navy yesterday.

Eighteen Japanese planes were shot down in air battles Saturday—seven over Truk in the Central Carolines where one Liberator was lost, and eleven over Blak Island in the Schouten group off the Dutch New Guinea north coast.

One column of U. S. Sixth army troops was halted on the Blak beach. But a second force, fighting over the ridges north of the beach, flanked the Nipponese defenders and began driving toward Mokmer airdrome. This field is one of three on Blak within bombing range of the Philippines.

Six transports and ten cargo vessels were sunk by submarines. The Navy announcement did not indicate whether any of the transports were laden with troops. Since Pearl Harbor United States submarines have sunk 589 Nipponese ships.

Changsha Hard Pressed
Tokyo is so hard-pressed for cargo space, another navy announcement indicated, that naval patrol vessels are being pressed into service as freighters. A single navy bombing plane caught a convoy of the little craft in the Caroline Islands west of Truk Friday. It sank one and heavily strafed the others. An auxiliary was sunk and another damaged inside Truk lagoon Saturday by a Central Pacific search plane.

On the major warfront in Asia six Japanese columns were closing on Changsha, a pivotal point on the Hankow-Canton railway bisecting Southeastern China.

One spearhead was 25 miles north of the city after a ten mile advance. Another was engaged in bitter fighting in hills 40 miles northeast of Changsha. And 60 miles northwest of the Hunan Provincial capital Nipponese made their third crossing of Lake Tungting within a week.

China's Fate In Balance
"The fate of the nation depends upon the outcome of the present battle," said Gen. Heuch Yueh, governor of Hunan who has three times thrown the invaders back from Changsha.

More than 100 miles northwest of Changsha on the far side of Lake Tungting the Chinese recaptured Kungang and reported a number of local successes. Their engagements have no direct bearing on the main battle.

No Sight-Seeing
For Fifth ArmyEternal City Is Liberated Almost Without Damage; Germans Suffer
Loss Of Prestige

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
Rome, June 5 (AP)—Allied armor and motorized infantry roared through the Eternal City today—not pausing to sight-see—crossed the Tiber, and proceeded with the grim task of destroying two battered German armies fleeing to the north. Flashing forces of Allied fighter-bombers spearheaded the pursuit, jamming the escape highways northward with burning enemy transport and littering the fields with dead and wounded Nazis.

Enemy Bewildered
The enemy was tired, disorganized and bewildered by the slashing character of the Allied assault, which in 25 days had inflicted a major catastrophe on German forces in Italy and liberated Rome almost without damage to the historic city. Joining the relentless program of destruction, 500 American heavy bombers blasted rail yards at five points in northern Italy between Venice and Rimini along which the Germans might attempt to move reinforcements and equipment to bolster Marshal Albert Kesselring's beaten armies.

WAYNE AUDITOR
LOSES APPEALSConviction For Accepting Bribe Upheld By
Supreme Court

Lansing, June 5 (AP)—The conviction of Ray D. Schneider, former Wayne county auditor accused of accepting a bribe, was upheld by the state supreme court today.

Schneider was sentenced to serve three to 10 years for accepting a bribe from Edgar M. Robbins to influence his vote in awarding insurance business.

Ruling on the principal point of appeal, the supreme court said the rights of the defendant were not injured by holding his trial shortly after newspaper editorials had been printed criticizing the conduct of Wayne county government. Counsel for Schneider obtained a mistrial once because of one editorial and a month later demanded an adjournment of a second trial because of an editorial in another paper.

The court said defense counsel at the trial had expressed no dissatisfaction with the jury selection, had not exhausted its peremptory challenges and had not asked for a change of venue. Hence, the court said, the defense could not contend now Schneider had an unfair trial.

Rehearing Sought
By Detroit Edison
On Court Decision

Lansing, June 5 (AP)—Today Detroit Edison Company petitioned the state supreme court for a rehearing of its significant decision directing the state public service commission to ignore excess profits taxes paid by utilities in fixing their rates.

Gilbert T. Shilson, chairman of the commission, said the Detroit Edison's move would not delay a conference scheduled in Detroit June 8 between the city of Detroit, Detroit Edison and the commission at which time Shilson has said he hoped a new rate schedule could be negotiated.

The court's decision already has been the basis for proposals that all public utilities in the state reduce their rates sufficient to offset excess profits taxes paid to the federal government. The utilities have resisted such a proposal.

Insurance Business
Is Ruled Interstate Commerce By Court

BY EDWARD H. HIGGINS
Washington, June 5 (AP)—The supreme court, overturning a 15-year-old decision, ruled today that the insurance business is interstate commerce and therefore subject to regulation under the Sherman anti-trust law and the Wagner labor act.

The decision in the anti-trust case upheld indictments charging a group of fire insurance companies with conspiracy to restrain interstate trade and paved the way for similar actions against other companies which the justice department has said it would start if the indictments were sustained.

WAREHOUSE BURNED

Reed City, Mich., June 5 (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin swept a warehouse owned by the Remington Hardware and Implement Co. and the adjacent freight depot of the Pere Marquette railway here today.

BIG BOMBERS
HAMMER GUN
COAST AGAINAERIAL ONSLAUGHT RUNS INTO ITS 18TH DAY

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
London, June 5 (AP)—American heavy bombers up to 750 strong smashed again today at Hitler's bristling Atlantic wall, continuing a ceaseless pounding hurling more than 15,000 tons of explosives since Friday against that section of the French coast nearest this island arsenal.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators, shepherded by 500 fighters, dumped 2,200 tons of bombs on the Nazi front-line invasion defenses in the area from Calais to Boulogne as the mighty Allied aerial onslaught thundered into its eighteenth consecutive day. Details and losses were not announced immediately.

It was the fourth continuous day of pounding for the area, and the sixth straight mission against those targets for the American heavies.

During that period American and British heavy bombers also have slammed railroads in the Paris area and other objectives in occupied France with 5,000 tons of explosives.

Paris Area Included
Today's U. S. assault was followed in the afternoon by attacks on bridges, intersections, locomotives and other rail targets at Conflans, Gisors, Mezieres and Beauvais in northern France and at Mons in Belgium by Thunderbolt fighter-bombers of the U. S. Ninth Air Force. Factories at Conflans and Juviers and a radio station at Louviers, also in northern France, were blasted.

These daylight blows followed quickly the third straight night attack by the RAF on the so-called "mystery emplacements" across the channel in the Pas de Calais area.

Only twice during their eight missions crowded in since Friday morning have the American heavies penetrated beyond the "rocket-gun coast." In the second of Saturday's two raids and in the third of yesterday's triple-header attack they went as far as the Paris area to unload their deadly cargo on railroads and other objectives.

The coastal installations still were smoking from the forerunner assault when medium Marauder bombers winged over northern France under Thunderbolt escort at midday, to heap further destruction on invasion targets. Thunderbolt fighter-bombers helped to set the stage by dive-bombing ground defenses. Pilots reported moderate flak and no fighter opposition, and the Marauders accomplished the mission without loss.

Marine Camp Fire
Kills Five Persons

Norfolk, Va., June 5 (AP)—Five persons, including two women Marines, died and three others were seriously injured in a fire which gutted training building at the Cherry Point, N. C., marine corps air station Saturday afternoon.

Tonight's announcement by the Fifth Naval District public relations office raised the death toll, first announced as three. Four of the dead had been identified tonight, but the other body was so badly burned as to make recognition difficult, and identification has not been made.

Particulars of the fire were not disclosed.

German Offensive
Halted In Bosnia

London, June 5 (AP)—Yugoslav partisans have halted a new German offensive in sections of western Bosnia, a communique from Marshal Tito reported tonight.

The broadcast, recorded by the ministry of information, said the Nazis had been forced to retreat on some fronts.

STUDENTS GET THRILL

Detroit, June 5 (AP)—An estimated 1,000 Redford high school students received an unexpected thrill on an excursion today when the steering engine on their steamer, the Put-in-Bay, stalled in the middle of Lake St. Clair, leaving the vessel helpless. The passengers were transferred in mid-lake to the steamer St. Claire.

Landings Made
On French Coast

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 6 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced today that Allied troops began landing on the northern coast of France this morning strongly supported by naval and air forces.

Text of the communique:
Under the command of Gen. Eisenhower Allied naval forces supported by strong air forces began landing Allied armies this morning on the northern coast of France.

The Germans said the landings extended between Le Havre and Cherbourg along the south side of the bay of the Seine and along the northern Normandy coast.

Berlin first announced the landings in a series of flashes that began about 6:30 a. m. (12:30 a. m. Eastern War time). The Allied communique was read over a trans-Atlantic hookup direct from General Eisenhower's headquarters at 3:32 E. W. T., designated "Communique No. 1."

A second announcement by SHAEF said that "It is announced that Gen. B. L. Montgomery is in command of the army group carrying out the assault. This army group includes British, Canadian, and U. S. forces."

The Allied bulletin did not say exactly where the invasion was taking place, but Berlin earlier gave these details:
Allied naval forces, including heavy warships, are shelling Le Havre. "It is a terrific bombardment," Berlin said.

Allied parachute troops floating down along the Normandy coast were landing and being engaged by German shock troops.

Other Allied units were streaming ashore into Normandy from landing barges.

In a special order of the day issued to all soldiers, sailors and airmen under his command, Gen. Eisenhower said:
"We will accept nothing except full victory."

Eisenhower told his men they were "embarking on a great crusade toward which we have striven these many months," and warned them that they were facing a tough, well-prepared enemy.

Berlin said the "center of gravity" of the fierce fighting was at Caen, 30 miles southwest of Le Havre and 65 miles southeast of Cherbourg.

Ten Miles Inland
Caen is 10 miles inland from the sea, at the base of the 75-mile-wide Normandy peninsula.

Heavy fighting also was reported between Caen and Trouville.

One of Berlin's first claims was that the First British parachute division was badly mauled.

General Montgomery, hero of the African desert, was leading the assault of the Allied liberation army.

No other Allied commanders were announced, for the thousands of battle-trained Allied troops, although Gen. Omar Bradley has been in command of American ground forces in England for several months.

Bradley participated in the Tunisian victory.

Thousands of battle-trained American, British and Canadian troops hurled themselves at Hitler's defenses.

RULER OF ITALY
KEEPS PROMISEVittorio Emanuele III
Steps Aside, Gives
Job To Son

BY SID FEDER
Naples, June 5 (AP)—King Vittorio Emanuele III stepped aside as monarch of Italy today as he previously had said he would do upon the liberation of Rome and handed to his 29-year-old son, Crown Prince Umberto, all "royal prerogatives."

Italian political pressure had been brought to bear against him since the conquest of Naples.

In a decree signed by himself and countersigned by Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio, head of the Italian liberation government, the king named his son Lieutenant general of the realm.

The monarch, however, retained his title as head of the House of Savoy and remains as king without power.

King Vittorio Emmanuel, who became ruler July 29, 1900, had announced last April 12 his "irrevocable" decision to withdraw from public life "on the day on which Allied troops enter Rome," and to turn his powers over to the crown prince.

Little more than a figurehead since Mussolini assumed the dictatorship of Italy, Vittorio Emanuele had won a reputation the first years of his reign as a sympathetic monarch, interested in his people and their problems.

A free Austria movement has moved in and has raised the Austrian flag.

It was a great day for both the Allies and the Romans, but up in the hills beyond the Fifth and Eighth armies still were fighting the enemy.

Pvt. Willie Black of Guley Bridge, W. Va., standing guard at one corner, said he had to fight his way through the friendly crowds to his post and had turned down unnumberable bottles of wine.

Dozens of Italians tried out their English on the Americans. Among them was Joseph Esposito, who said he formerly was from St. Louis and had been living in Rome for the last ten years. He volunteered to be our guide.

Esposito pointed out the Central railroad station where a bomb had nearly put the yards out of commission and missed by but a few yards the Continental hotel, where German officers were billeted.

The Excelsior hotel, where the German commander stayed, was decorated with big British and American flags, as was the famous Grand hotel.

VICTORY SEEN
AS FAR AHEAD
BY ROOSEVELTLAST DAYS OF WAR
WILL BE COSTLY,
NATION WARNED

BY HOWARD FLIEGER
Washington, June 5 (AP)—Hailing the capture of Rome with the jubilant phrase "one up and two to go," President Roosevelt now declared tonight that the aim now is to drive Germany "to the point where she will be unable to recommence world conquest a generation hence."

Mr. Roosevelt, in a nation-wide radio broadcast, cautioned that this struggle with the Nazis would be tough and costly and that the day of Germany's surrender "lies some distance ahead."

Whether his reaffirmation that the fight would be pressed until Germany surrenders was a reply to the recent speech of Pope Pius XII was not stated. The Pope asserted last week that the idea that the war must end either in complete victory or complete destruction is a stimulant toward prolonging the conflict and expressed hope for an early peace.

No Thanks To Hitler
Speaking of Rome as the great symbol of Christianity, the president declared "it will be a source of deep satisfaction that the freedom of the Pope and of Vatican City is assured by the armies of the United Nations."

But he declared that no thanks are due Hitler and his generals "if Rome was spared the devastation which the Germans wreaked on Naples and other Italian cities."

"The Allied generals maneuvered so skillfully," he said, "that the Nazis could only have stayed long enough to damage Rome at the risk of losing their armies."

"Our victory," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "comes at an excellent time, while our Allied forces are poised for another strike at western Europe—and while armies of other Nazi soldiers nervously await our attack. And our gallant Russian Allies continue to make their power felt more and more."

People Near Starvation
The president extended to Italy the invitation to help in establishing a lasting peace and said, "all the other nations opposed to Fascism and Nazism should help give Italy a chance."

"The Germans, after years of domination in Rome, have left the people in the eternal city on the verge of starvation. We and the British will do everything we can to bring them relief. . . . We have already begun to save the lives of the men, women and children of Rome."

The Italian people "are capable of self-government," Mr. Roosevelt continued. "We do not lose sight of their virtues as a people."

SENIORS TOLD TO KEEP FAITH

Rev. Wilberding Urges Graduates To Heed Conscience

"Heed the voice of your conscience and be guided by your faith in God and you will go through life contentedly and happily," Rev. Alphonse Wilberding, D. F. M., told the senior members of the Escanaba high school in the annual baccalaureate sermon Sunday evening at the Wm. W. Oliver Memorial auditorium.

The speaker told the members of the graduating class that their conscience represents a tried and true guide in meeting the vicissitudes and problems of life.

Rev. Alphonse rapped the characters who, for a price, attempt to reveal the future, declaring "The object in life is not to know the future but to be ready for it. Even there were certain ways of foretelling the future, you would not know your future, because it would stifle your ambition."

Raps Fortune Tellers

The baccalaureate speaker declared that most of the great explorations and discoveries in science would have remained mysteries if there were ways of foretelling the future. He explained that nearly all great discoveries have been made only after dangerous explorations.

"A scientist who knew that a certain experiment would result in his death never would attempt that experiment and the knowledge of his work would never come to life."

The speaker emphasized that knowledge of the future does not necessarily mean mastery of the future.

"Our football team may know the opponents will throw a forward pass, but it does not follow that they will be able to intercept the pass, or even to prevent its completion," Rev. Alphonse analogized. "Just as our football teams must be ready for any eventuality, so must each of you be prepared."

The baccalaureate service opened commencement week at the Escanaba high school. The class day program will be held this morning, followed by the annual honor day exercises this afternoon. The senior banquet is scheduled for Wednesday night and the commencement program and the awarding of diplomas will be Thursday night.

England obtained the Dutch Colonies of Guinea and the Cape of Good Hope for $6,000,000 in 1814.

Michigan Public Health Expert Taken By Death

Lansing, Mich., June 5 (AP)—Dr. C. C. Young, director of the Michigan state health laboratories and known internationally as a leader in the field of public health, died tonight at St. Lawrence hospital here following a lingering illness.

Under his energetic influence, the Michigan laboratories grew from a couple of rooms to its present 22-building unit, center of a progressive program of providing free materials and medicines for the treatment of dangerous communicable diseases.

Dr. Young, 57 years old, had headed the laboratories since February 21, 1919, when he was retired from the army as a disabled officer. He had served as a first lieutenant in the army sanitary corps in the first World War.

A colorful, tremendous worker, he was famous for his vision and ability to put into practice the things he planned. The medical profession praised him, as the man who had the outstanding role in bringing diphtheria into control through a state program of free distribution of medicine for treatment and prevention, backed by intensive education of the public on control measures. Once one of the leading causes of death in Michigan, diphtheria outbreaks now are rare. Smallpox and scarlet fever vaccination programs, distribution of sulpha and other drugs for the control of venereal diseases, production of plasma for civilians, and, recently, the start of penicillin production for free distribution were among great achievements in his record.

He was born January 9, 1887, in Manhattan, Kans. His mother was the first white child born in the territory. His grandfather, Josiah Pillsbury, was a member of the first Kansas territorial legislature.

Dr. Young was professor and department head of preventive medicine and public health at the Wayne University College of Medicine from 1931 to 1938. He was graduated from Kansas University in 1908, where he received the degree of master of science in 1909, and in 1924 received a degree of doctor of public health at the University of Michigan. Michigan State College awarded him the honorary doctor of science in 1942.

Dr. Young in 1925 married Miss Minna Crooks, who served with him as an associate director of the bureau of laboratories here. Mrs. Young survives him. They had no children.

He started "Torch Light," a mail order bookstore for rare and out of print books, as a hobby. It became a flourishing business, and scouts sent books from all over the world. He also raised French poodles at his home in Portland, Mich., and showed them at Madison Square Garden.

He was a fellow of the American Public Health Association, and was named to its executive board in 1942. He also was a member of the Infectious Disease Committee of the Medical Pan-American Congress, of Commission Three, Institut International Du Froid, the Society of Experimental Biology and Medicine, Alpha Chi Sigma, Delta Omega, and Sigma Xi. He was a member of the Detroit Athletic club and Sigma Chi fraternity.

Arrangements for the funeral are incomplete.

Transfers from other boards to Escanaba for pre-induction examination are: Roy Ernest LaValley, Ernest Walter Porath, Roy Joseph Belanger and John Richard Williams.

Confetti Litters Streets

The inhabitants' reception to the troops approached hysteria as the day wore on, and home-made confetti soon littered the streets. There was an almost carnival atmosphere. Little damage to the city was visible, the Nazis having limited demolitions to a few installations of an artistic or religious importance.

The speed of the enemy's flight once his lines before Rome burst was evident in the great quantities of war material left behind, stockpiles sufficient to equip several divisions. An Allied spokesman expressed the official opinion that the tremendous pressure exerted by the Allies in the final phase of the battle for Rome had forced the enemy to flee beyond the capital rather than make a protracted fight for the city itself.

The great circle in front of St. Peter's was crowded with townspeople, but no Allied soldiers entered the area.

Pope Pius XII, addressing an enormous crowd including many Fifth army soldiers in St. Peter's Square, expressed thanks to God that Rome had not been destroyed by war.

King Emanuel Quits

(In Naples it was announced that King Vittorio Emanuele III had signed a retirement decree conferring his powers upon his son, Crown Prince Umberto, whom he named lieutenant governor of the realm. However, the monarch retained the title as head of the house of Savoy, thus remaining a king without power.)

Hour after hour the Allied warplanes swept down on highways leading northward and tore the fleeing enemy apart. Twelve-hundred Nazi transport vehicles were destroyed from dawn to dark yesterday, and hundreds more today.

Farther north medium bombers smashed bridges and rail facilities, leaving wreckage and fire that one airman said looked like "the city dump on burning day."

British Eighth army forces advancing from the east continued to meet stubborn opposition, particularly northeast of Valmontone, where the Germans were fighting in fixed mountain defense positions. The enemy had been driven completely out of the Sacco valley, clearing the towns of Flung, Piglio, Paliano, Guarcino and Cave. Palestrina, astride an important retreat road four and a half miles north of Valmontone, was seized by Allied troops yesterday.

More Air Bases

It is generally assumed that the Germans—what numbers of them survive—will ultimately fall back about 150 miles north of Rome, the northern Apennine mountain range provides a formidable barrier. At no point short of that will they find a natural defense line comparable to the shattered Hitler and Gustav Lines.

The capture of Rome did little to alter the situation as far as aerial operations is concerned, other than to provide additional bases for operations of the tactical air force.

BY JUDSON O'QUINN

London, June 5 (AP)—Germans retreating from Rome, the Vichy radio announced tonight, have abandoned the entire left bank of the Tiber river from its mouth to the city whose loss, the Nazis conceded earlier, was a blow to their prestige.

It was reported earlier this week that Adolf Hitler himself had a special train ready to rush him to France to take over personal command as he did on the east front.

Despite these reports Allied military men expected Rommel to be the main tactician on German defense but on the Allied side were the team of Eisenhower and Montgomery—the men who chased Rommel from Africa.

Although amphibious attacks are the most difficult in war, a quiet feeling of confidence characterized the Allied generals.

The Germans also declared that Calais and Dunkerque, immediately across the English channel from Britain, were under heavy air attack.

The German radio gave the first reports of the invasion while correspondents were hurriedly summoned from bed to supreme press headquarters and locked in a press conference room until the communique was released several hours after the landings were made.

It was made known at SHAEF that the supreme command felt it necessary to yield the initiative in the war of words to the Germans in order to retain the initiative on land and keep the German high command in the dark as long as possible.

The great Allied armada dwarfed anything yet seen on the sea.

Huge transport planes filled with paratroopers and pulling airborne troops in gliders roared over the German westwall to drop their cargoes in the rear.

Berlin said that masses of Allied parachute troops bailed out over Normandy, trying to seize airfields.

Just before taking off in the darkness the paratroopers were wished Godspeed by the lanky Kansas supreme commander, Gen. Eisenhower.

He was accompanied by several other of his commanders and his face was tense but confident as he strode down the long lines of fighting men.

All night long London and England resounded to the roar of thousands of airplanes, some carrying bombs, some carrying men. Returning RAF bombers met big fleets of Flying Fortresses on their way out.

New York Sergeant Gives Speech From Mussolini's Balcony

New York, June 5 (AP)—The mother of an American doughboy who made an anti-fascist speech today from Benito Mussolini's marble balcony in Rome declared tonight "my son Johnny said he'd do it for me and I knew he would."

"It was just like him," Mrs. Joseph Vita of Port Chester, N. Y., said at the National Broadcasting Company news room in commenting on the exploit of her son Sgt. John Vita, a signal corps.

The Mutual Broadcasting System said a cheering crowd of Italian men, women and children stood below as Vita spoke in English and, although they could not understand him, they laughed and waved flags.

MBS quoted Vita, whose mother is a native of Italy, as saying: "I promised my mother that is what I'd do when I got to Rome. I can do anything Mussolini can do. I'm an American."

ing on the impending fight for Changsha.

In Northern Burma Chinese and American infantrymen inside the enemy's base of Myitkyina inched forward 400 yards. Outside the city, airborne British troops hammered at Myitkyina's southern defenses and native soldiers attacked from the north.

The enemy withdrew from Mamsu on the western end of the Burma front. Chinese infantrymen captured a village in the Mogaung valley, west of Myitkyina, and tightened their noose around the valley stronghold of Kamaing.

Aleutian-based bombers, flying the northern "short line to Tokyo," hit Paramushira and Ketoi Island, within 450 miles of Japan proper.

Four Men Rescued In Lake Erie Mishap

Monroe, Mich., June 5 (AP)—Fishermen rescued four men when their boat overturned in Lake Erie, off Detroit beach, in a high wind tonight.

The capsized craft was being sailed by its owner, Hyman Kovitz, Kovitz, his son, Arthur, Charles Saultman and a fourth man whom sheriff's deputies did not immediately identify were tossed into the lake and clung to their boat until help came.

Lee Greizler and Ed Duval had just returned to shore from a fishing trip when they saw the sailboat overturn. They immediately put out again in their own craft, which was powered by an outboard motor, and rescued the four.

Rail-Air Express Shows Increase

Combination rail-air express shipments handled for the nation's commercial airlines in the first three months of this year increased 19.6 per cent over the first quarter of 1943. L. E. Shambue, agent of the Railway Express Agency, reported yesterday. A total of 110,342 shipments were moved in the combined service in the three-month period, compared with 92,223 shipments last year, Mr. Shambue said.

Rail-air express handled at Escanaba for the first quarter of 1944 showed an increase of 92.3 per cent and charges showed an increase of 95.8 per cent, well over the national average.

loving nation."

Speaking of the military operations still to come in Europe, the president said:

"We shall have to push through a long period of greater effort and fiercer fighting before we get into Germany itself. The Germans have retreated thousands of miles, all the way from the gates of Cairo, through Libya and Tunisia and Sicily and southern Italy."

"They have suffered heavy losses, but not great enough yet to cause collapse."

In Italy, the president said, the people had lived so long "under the corrupt rule of Mussolini that, in spite of the tinsel at the top, their economic condition had grown steadily worse. Our troops have found starvation, malnutrition, disease, a deteriorating education and lowered public health—all byproducts of the Fascist misrule."

"The task of the Allies in occupation has been stupendous," he continued. "We have had to start at the very bottom, assisting local governments to reform on democratic lines."

"We have had to give them bread to replace that which was stolen out of their mouths by the Germans. We have had to make it possible for the Italians to raise and use their own local crops. We have to help them cleanse their schools of Fascist trappings."

Mr. Roosevelt said the American people approve "the salvage of these human beings who are only now learning to walk in a new atmosphere of freedom."

Some people, he said, may think of the financial cost of liberating Italy but he termed it a "form of relief."

"We hope," he added, "that this relief will be an investment for the future—an investment that will pay dividends by eliminating Fascism and ending any Italian desires to start another war of aggression."

It was the president's first major radio address for months. In it, he paid tribute to all the Allied troops who participated in the Italian campaign.

"I extend the congratulations and thanks of the American people," he said, "to General Alexander, who has been in command of the whole Italian operation; to General Clark and General Leese of the Fifth and the Eighth armies; to General Wilson, the supreme Allied commander of the Mediterranean theater, and General Devers, his American deputy; to Lieutenant-General Eaker; to Admirals Cunningham and Hewitt; and to all their brave officers and men."

TWO WORKMEN HURT IN FALL

Rudolph Gustafson Seriously Injured As Scaffold Breaks

Rudolph Gustafson, 57, of 1412 North 20th street, was critically injured and Clarence Anderson, 44, of 1116 South 14th street, sustained a bad fracture of the left heel bone when a scaffold on which they were working at the old C. & N. W. blacksmith shop, First avenue north, broke and the two men fell to the concrete floor yesterday afternoon.

The men were employed by Sverre Sviland, who has the contract for remodeling the old blacksmith shop which will house the Solar Furniture company plant here.

The accident occurred about two o'clock. When the scaffold broke, the two workmen fell a distance of approximately 18 feet.

They were removed to St. Francis hospital. Gustafson sustained fractures of transverse processes on both sides of the vertebrae, as well as a severe laceration of the right elbow. He may also have sustained internal injuries. The attending physician reported that Gustafson's condition is critical.

Anderson is expected to recover. Aronson is expected to recover.

News From Men In The Service

A Ninth Air Force Troop Carrier command station, England — Sergeant Carlton D. Johnson, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Johnson of 1227 Stephenson Avenue, Escanaba, has completed 18 months of overseas service in the Mediterranean theater and is now in England with the IX Troop Carrier Command of Ninth Air Force, U. S. component of the Allied Expeditionary Air Force.

Egypt was his first overseas station, and as the British Eighth Army advanced after the victory at El Alamein, the Squadron with which he then served moved westward across the desert to Cyrenaica, Tripolitania, and to Tunisia. At the close of the Tunisian campaign, he participated in a training program with paratroopers in Algeria and French Morocco and then moved back to Tunisia to take part in the paratroop operations that spearheaded the invasion of Sicily.

Later, Sgt. Johnson was stationed in Sicily, where he participated in an airborne mission over the Salerno bridgehead in Italy. After the bridgehead was established, the Troop Carrier unit with which he fought was active in the aerial supply of front-line fighting troops and in the air evacuation of sick and wounded military personnel.

Sgt. Johnson has already been stationed in 7 different countries since leaving the States, and has visited such cities as Tripoli, Tunis, Palermo, and Trapani. He has not been in England very long, but already he is convinced that living conditions here are vastly superior to what he experienced in the African desert and war-torn Sicily. Despite improved conditions, however, a steady flow of mail from friends back home is still his favorite morale-builder.

Sgt. Johnson enlisted June 13, 1942, at Traverse City, Michigan, and took his basic training at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri. He was subsequently assigned to the Army Air Forces Civilian School at Fort Logan, Colorado.

Christian Science Church Holds Its Annual Meeting

Boston, Mass., June 5 (Special)

While holding military might essential to the victory of Allied nations over the anti-Christ claims of injustice and intolerance, the Christian Science Board of Directors today told the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, that freedom is essentially a spiritual gift "to be realized only through spiritual understanding and attainment."

Before an audience of several thousand Christian Scientists essentially local in character due to wartime restrictions upon transportation, the Directors cited the universal determination to win the peace as advance evidence of a world-wide realization that "righteous victory under arms will not suffice to guarantee freedom to mankind."

The Directors' statement highlighted reports to the third annual meeting of The Mother Church held under wartime conditions which cited increasing evidence of church growth and activity, and unprecedented demands for the work of Mary Baker Eddy and The Christian Science Monitor. Sales of Mrs. Eddy's works were said to have risen to twice the volume of the last pre-war year, indicating the increasing desire for spiritual progress in the wartime emergency.

At the same time, transportation problems and material shortages were reported to have been surmounted by The Christian Science Publishing Society and The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. Two hundred thousand periodicals were estimated to have been delivered and received by Reading Rooms in Great Britain with only seven pieces lost in transit, and occasional copies of Christian Science literature were said to have found their way into some countries of occupied Europe.

Announcement was made by the Directors of the appointment of Paul Stark Seeley, of Cambridge, Massachusetts, as President of The Mother Church for the ensuing year, succeeding Mrs. Daisette D. S. McKensie.

Paul Stark Seeley, Associate Editor of the Christian Science periodicals, other than The Christian Science Monitor, a native of Poughkeepsie, New York, became a member of The Mother Church in 1909, while a student at Harvard Law School. He holds the degrees of A. B. from Princeton and LL. B. from Harvard. He served as Committee on Publication for Oregon and then entered the public practice of Christian Science. He resigned as First Reader of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Portland, Oregon, to accept appointment on the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, on which Board he served until elected Associate Editor in 1942. In 1919 Mr. Seeley received instruction in the Normal Class of the Board of Education of The Mother Church, and since then has taught yearly a Primary Class in Christian Science in Portland, Oregon.

Tracing the growth of the Christian Science movement from the time of the erection of the original edifice of The Mother Church, 50 years next December, to the present day, the new President revealed an increase in the number of branch Christian Science churches from less than 100 a half century ago, located in two countries, to nearly 2,900 today located in 54 countries.

Reports from the field and from the various departments of the Christian Science movement indicated a sharp turn to religion as the mainstay of a war-torn world. Surmounting of serious wartime

In civilian life, Sgt. Johnson was employed by the U. S. Forest Service. He is a graduate of Escanaba Senior High School (1937), the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids (1938), and the Walton School of Commerce, Chicago (1939).

Albert J. Larson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Larson, Rapid River, Mich., is receiving his initial naval indoctrination at the U. S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

His "boot" training consists of instruction in seamanship, military drill, and general naval procedure. During this period a series of aptitude tests will be taken by the recruit to determine whether he will be assigned to a Naval Service School or to immediate active duty at sea.

His recruit training completed, the seaman will spend a period of leave at home.

Headquarters, European Theater of Operations — Promotion of Ernest L. Peterson, 23, of Munising, Mich., member of an Army Engineer Maintenance Company in England, to sergeant has been announced. He is a machinist in charge of a mobile heavy machine shop.

Sergeant Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peterson of 311 East Onota Street, Munising, had completed three years of study in Industrial Arts at Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette, when he was inducted in September, 1942.

Sgt. Peterson received his basic training in infantry in Alabama, followed by six months machinist schooling and four months base shop work at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Maryland. He also served in California before coming overseas.

PAUL STARK SEELEY
Incoming President of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts problems in transportation added a dramatic touch to the report of The Christian Science Board of Lectureship. At one time, Army authorities sent a special airplane on a 400-mile trip to enable a Christian Science lecturer to speak to members of the armed forces, the report stated. Two lecturers, instead of the usual one, were sent into Mexico during the last year, and for the first time in five years, American members of the Board were able to deliver lectures in Great Britain.

Regardless of the German blockade of Europe, copies of Christian Science periodicals were reported by the Trustees under the Will of Mary Baker Eddy to be finding their way into Switzerland.

Despite the emergency rationing of paper and other wartime restrictions, the Trustees of The Christian Science Publishing Society revealed the largest circulation ever attained by the leading Christian Science periodicals, and Bible sales were twice those of 1942. This progress was made possible under paper allotments by reducing the basic weight of paper with no reduction in reading matter, excepting that of The Christian Science Monitor.

In the report of the Manager of Committees on Publication, a warning was sounded that as public thought becomes more socially-minded, a growing number of legislative bills providing for sickness or disability insurance poses a real threat to the growth of our religion.

Unintentionally, no doubt, but nevertheless certainly, the report made it clear that legislation of the type described would, if passed, curtail the freedom of Christian Science practice and thus encroach upon one of the four basic freedoms, the freedom of worship. It was disclosed that 13 of the Christian Science Army Chaplains are now stationed overseas, and that one of these chaplains has been honored with the Legion of Merit for exceptionally meritorious conduct and courage under fire, which was an inspiration to the entire command. His report further pointed out that splendid spiritual healing is being accomplished by all of the chaplains.

The report of the Camp Welfare Activities showed that 2,000 War Relief Committees in Christian Science branch churches and societies in the United States and Canada are sending clothing in considerable quantities to Great Britain, Russia, Malta and Greece, and that 145 War Relief Officers and Ministers are at work in the field for the movement, along with 428 volunteer Christian Science War-time Workers.

Salvation Army's War Work Shown At Kiwanis Club

The war service work being done by the Salvation Army all over the world was told in a talk by Col. Tom Gabrielson of Chicago and depicted in two movies shown at the regular luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club at the Sherman hotel yesterday noon.

Col. Gabrielson, who has two sons in the navy and a couple others in the army, said that the Salvation Army is now doing at least forty times as much work for the welfare of the armed forces as was done in the first World War.

The Salvation Army was stationed in 97 countries in peacetime, and its workers were already on the job when the American soldiers arrived in Australia, New Guinea, North Africa, and other fighting zones. They were on the job two hours after the bombing of Pearl Harbor, he added.

More than two million dollars was expended by the Salvation Army in the South Pacific last year. At the present time, it has 500 mobile canteens in the British Isles, waiting to participate in the invasion. These are the newer and larger type canteens, which are able to serve coffee, doughnuts and other items to 2,000 men in about a half hour, he explained.

COFFEE POT HAD ONLY $46

Negaunee Tavern Owner Didn't Find $35,000 Fortune

Negaunee—The $35,000 Michael Kelly, proprietor of "Kelly's Slide," was alleged to have discovered in a coffee pot while excavating for a kitchen basement on his premises May 17, today boiled down to $46 and Mr. Kelly is ready at any time to make "proper accounting and disposition" of the funds.

Michael F. DeFant, Negaunee, counsel for Kelly, today made this statement:

"Contrary to reports which have been widely circulated throughout the county, the amount of money found by Michael Kelly on his premises in Negaunee township was $46.

"The money was discovered in an overturned coffeepot the afternoon of May 17, while Mr. Kelly was in process of making repairs on the premises. He opened the coffee pot in the building known as Kelly's Slide and found it to contain one $5 bill and 41 $1 bills of the size now in use.

Says He Complied With Law

"Unaware of any legal regulations governing the disposition of money so found, Mr. Kelly did not give any immediate official notice. His first intimation of statutory requirements came when John Kivela, Negaunee township supervisor, called on him at Kelly's Slide and made demand on him for the funds.

"Mr. Kelly then reported the findings to the county prosecutor and made substantial compliance with the law, posting two notices of the discovery in his place of business and offering a copy of the notice to Leslie Abrahamson, a township justice of the peace.

"There is reason to believe the money may belong to one of two tenants who occupied the premises immediately previous to purchase of the property by Mr. Kelly. They moved out before he took possession. They lived in a room directly over the spot where the money was found. A hole in the floor had been repaired by Mr. Kelly when he took possession, but he had no reason to make any examination at that time of the area below the flooring. These tenants are believed still to be in the upper peninsula, but their exact whereabouts are unknown at this time to my client.

"Mr. Kelly has always been and still is ready to make proper accounting and disposition of the $46 which he found the afternoon of May 17."

Allies Take Rome

THE spectacle of German soldiers and Italian Fascists fleeing northward from Rome with the Allied troops in hot pursuit had have nothing but a devastating effect upon Axis morale.

The liberation of the Italian capital apparently was timed for its psychological effect to precede the greater Allied offensive—the invasion of Western Europe. There is confusion among the Nazi troops as they flee toward Florence, but there must be greater confusion in the minds of Hitler and his Nazi aides in Berlin as they ponder where the Allied hordes will strike on the invasion coast. If they had the jitters before the fall of Rome, their nervous tensions must be all the greater now.

After using Rome for all the strategic advantage it gave them, the Nazis quite likely now will use the propaganda waves overtime to induce the Allies to declare the capital an "open city." But Rome is an important railroad center, and very likely the transportation facilities afforded there will be needed by the Allies for the movement of troops and supplies. If they need these facilities, they should use them, of course.

The Allies will remain in Rome for humanitarian reasons, too. Before leaving, the Nazis pillaged the city, robbing the civilians of virtually all their foodstuffs. The Italian people are hungry and they must be fed, and Rome's railroad facilities will be used to transport food to them. If any destruction of historic monuments is done in the future it will be done by Axis bombers, and not those of the Allies.

Working in a Factory

ONE of the problems faced by Escanaba and other communities that have attracted new industries in wartime is the cultivation of a public psychology in favor of the idea of employing women in factories.

Communities that have been accustomed to have only male labor employed in industry usually find it difficult at first to attract female help to work at the machine or bench.

This has been particularly true in the South, which in recent years has lured many textile plants and other industries from the New England area. In an article in the Wall Street Journal, one South Carolina editor is quoted as saying that a woman asked him if she should take a mill job at $25 a week or work in a lunchroom for $15. She was worried that working in a mill would hurt her social standing. The editor added that he knows of several people who worked in a mill to earn money to go to college to eventually obtain a teacher's job paying half as much.

The problem was solved by cooperative community action in Greenville, S. C. There, the mayor's wife and other leading women took jobs in a textile mill to give social recognition to the work, and as a result the traditional prejudice against factory employment has been considerably broken down.

Times have changed in industry as well as in other fields of activity. The modern factory is clean, well ventilated and lighted, observes all safety rules, and offers working conditions as agreeable as those to be found in offices, stores and classrooms. Oftentimes, too, the pay is much better.

Those Russian Bases

FOR many months, those persons who cannot entertain anything but distrust for the Russians have been needing about the alleged failure of the Soviet government to give the Allies air bases in Siberia for the bombing of Japan.

There has been no evidence, however, that either the British or the Americans asked for the use of Vladivostok and other bases in that area, but nevertheless there has been much harping over the fact that our flyers have not been taking off from Siberia. Whether we could effectively defend Siberian bases against the Japanese back months ago when we were still worrying about holding Australia and Hawaii has not entered the minds of the anti-Russian critics.

However, the Russians finally have given us some air bases. They're not in Siberia, however. They're in Western Europe, much closer to Moscow than the dreary wastes of Siberia would be.

News dispatches last week told of shuttle flights by American bombing planes to Russian bases after dropping bombs on Rumanian oil fields and other military targets. Landing in Russia, the Americans get their rest and their planes inspected by American mechanics stationed there, take on new bomb loads and shuttle back again.

Newspaper reports tell us that the American flyers and the Russians get along well together. Of course, the Russians are only human.

Cities Conduct Polls

THE Gallup poll idea is being employed by a number of American cities to determine what the citizens want with regard to postwar projects. A goodly number of the communities use a postcard, addressed for return and distributed to the public with the monthly utility service bills.

For instance, Oglesby, Ill., recently polled residents for an expression of opinion about a suitable memorial for its men and women in the armed services. The results of the poll showed the citizens desiring a new hospital most; a combined city hall and auditorium was second, while a swimming pool project was third.

There has been much talk in Escanaba about what civic improvement projects should be given priority when this city undertakes its postwar construction program. The poll of public opinion through advisory ballots, distributed with municipal utility bills, presents itself as a good idea that should be given a trial here.

Postwar Agriculture

THE Council of State Governments, in a recent report on postwar agricultural problems, expresses fear that returning veterans and unemployed industrial workers will be exploited through the private sales of land for farming in areas which are submarginal.

As a preventive, the report recommends that rural zoning ordinances should be drawn up to define what is good and poor agricultural land. Fortunately, Michigan some years ago passed a land zoning law, paving the way for the counties to set up zoning regulations. Incidentally, Delta was one of the first counties to make its survey of soil conditions and adopt a zoning ordinance.

Consequently, the chances that worthless farm lands will be foisted on returning veterans will be slim. They will need only to consult the zoning maps or their agricultural agent to learn what tracts of land are suitable for profitable farming.

WHO IS A BUREAUCRAT? (From Public Management)

Who is a "bureaucrat"? That depends—some people apply the term to all operating public officials just as they did "tax-eater" a decade ago, others use it in referring to the arrogant, incompetent, and indifferent public employee, and most everyone uses the term as a convenient kind of swearing at government rules and regulations. Only a few people use the term in its dictionary sense as applying to all public servants.

In calling government a bureaucracy most people direct attention to the defects in administration that arise from the size of modern government or to the growth in the regulatory activities of government especially at the federal level. In addition, people lend support in this manner to those groups which are attacking what-is-being-done under guise of how-it-is-being-done, which is not a democratic basis for action. Their haphazard name-calling generates more emotion than constructive thought and action and amounts to an attack on the concept of a professionalized public service. Their generalized criticism undermines the respect for the public servant at the local as well as the federal level. It is an attack on the postman who delivers their letters, the traffic officer on the corner, the fireman who prevents and fights fires, the health department physician controlling epidemic disease, and the chemist who tests the public water supply. All of these are bureaucrats, men hired to do work for all the people.

Not only is the current indiscriminate use of the term "bureaucrat" dangerous but it does not offer a solution to the problems of public administration. There is no simple basis for curtailing the functions of government, if that is desirable, or for decentralizing the powers of the federal government, or for determining which level of government should perform any given function. Bureaucracy would not be eliminated if the activities performed by government were returned to private groups or individuals; the current complaints about store employees indicate that business has its bureaucrats too.

Municipal administrators cannot ignore the term "bureaucrat" where it is used to imply a low grade of public service or poor management. There is always room and need for the further development and improvement not only of the individual public employee but also in administrative techniques in order that governmental services may be more effectively and democratically provided. There is no lack of information, experience, and ideas on what can and should be done. Officials and employees who are arrogant and "highhat" can be given training in politeness and decency; there is no excuse for arbitrariness or bad manners. Incompetent employees who cannot be trained may be removed and the merit system strengthened to insure the employment and retention of qualified personnel. City councils and administrators can adopt the best administrative techniques available, and build up among employees a concept for public service which comes before individual gain and which carries more than monetary rewards.

COMING BACK (Detroit News)

The lake sturgeon, largest of our fresh water fishes indigenous to the Great Lakes region, is slowly staging a comeback in Lake Michigan. But this does not hold true of Lakes Huron and Erie, where it was fairly common 40 years ago.

Due primarily to over-fishing, brought about by a demand for sturgeon roe for making caviar, and recognition of its palatability as a table fish, the sturgeon gradually disappeared. In 1915, Wisconsin prohibited sturgeon fishing and was followed in 1929 by Michigan. This closed Lake Michigan to commercial operators and sports fishermen. Complete protection

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

The P-47 Thunderbolt is one of our most effective high altitude fighter planes. But recently it has been utilized also as a fighter-bomber at low levels against small ground objectives. This offensive use of the defensive airplane has caused considerable confusion among some observers whose task it is to interpret military developments for the American people.

In reporting the fighter-bomber phase of the P-47 service, one London dispatch declared that this additional function was discovered "quite by accident." Another, likewise out of London, treats the offensive aspect of fighter airplanes as representing a "new role" and a new concept.

The impression is thus created in the public mind that American airmen are pretty much in a mental fog about the tactics and strategy of their weapon—that they are dependent on lucky accidents to disclose new uses of aviation as they go along. Today someone stumbles across one application of air power, tomorrow someone else stumbles on another, to judge from some reports.

The fact, of course, is that a given action which may seem new and unprecedented to observers without benefit of special training for interpreting aerial warfare may be wholly familiar to the air specialists. This war has been so overwhelmingly reported from the vantage point of surface strategy that matters touching on aviation are often seen out of focus.

—FORERUNNER OF SEVERSKY P-35—

So far as the P-47 specifically is concerned, I can write with some authority, having myself designed its prototype in 1938. Its forerunner, the Seversky P-35, was designed from the outset to carry bombs; that is to say, for use as a fighter-bomber when necessary. One version of this airplane carried as much as 1300 pounds of bombs. But aside from this particular plane, the idea of converting fighters into bombers for cooperation with surface forces is at least as old as the first World War. In this war it has been applied over and over again. To regard it as a recent innovation is simply to ignore the history of aerial warfare.

The Germans turned their fighters into bombers in the Battle of Britain. The mistake they made was to use these fighter-bombers for strategic, rather than purely tactical missions. By adding bombs racks to their fighters they sought to supplement their bombing force, which happened to be inadequate for strategic demolition. It should be noted, nevertheless, that the Nazis did use some of these fighter-bombers to attack airmen—which is exactly what we are using them for today in Fortress Europe.

In the Libyan campaign, too, fighter bombers were utilized to good effect by Allied leaders in support of their ground actions. The British converted their Hurricanes into fighter-bombers. Some Curtiss P-40 fighters were equipped with bombs and called "Tommybombers." In Libya then, as in Europe today, the purpose was to seek out and destroy German air power on the ground, and to demolish the other surface obstacles in the path of the surface advance.

The concept of fighter-into-bomber has long been an integral part of surface operations, entirely familiar to all airmen, so that they are shocked to find it treated as an accidental discovery of recent vintage. I had occasion some months ago, in January, to comment in these dispatches on the increasing use of the fighter to bomb surface objectives. I alluded at that time to an occasion in 1917, in the last stages of the war, when we had to resort to fighter-bombers in the Baltic, where I was in command of the fighter force.

The same thing was happening on other fronts, so that to airmen with a background of combat experience fighter bombers were a matter of routine. We took them into consideration in designing new fighter planes and in working out aerial tactics. In this war our forces have continually used Mustang P-51's (known as "Invaders"), Warhawks, and other fighters for bombing tasks in the Tunisian, Sicilian and Italian campaigns. The conversion of some P-47's for bombing jobs is in no sense an innovation. It was merely a matter of an established routine practice.

has been accorded the species in that lake ever since. Attempts to interest Ontario and bordering states to stop sturgeon fishing in Lakes Huron and Erie have failed, but in waters under Michigan's jurisdiction the fish is protected.

While occasionally sturgeon are taken in the Canadian waters of Lakes Huron and Erie and marketed by Canadian commercial fishermen, Michigan operators are compelled to return to the water any found in their nets. Continued fishing of a disappearing species by Canadian fishermen is slowly bringing about extermination, while long years of protection in waters under Wisconsin and Michigan jurisdiction is proving beneficial.

During each spring in recent years more and more sturgeon have been ascending rivers flowing into Lake Michigan to spawn. Last year one weighing 337 pounds and measuring seven feet, 10 inches became beached near the mouth of the St. Joseph River. This was the largest sturgeon recorded in many years in the Great Lakes area and undoubtedly had been able to spawn unmolested for several seasons. But in the streams leading into Lake Huron spawning sturgeon have become a rarity. It is all a matter of protection, and Ontario should join Michigan in its attempt to restore the sturgeon to Lake Huron.

And Mama Has Ideas of Her Own

Good Morning!

BEANS FROM HOME — The boys overseas are lonesome. It doesn't take much to make the men in service from Escanaba and Delta county think fondly of the day when the war will end, and they can again come home.

This was the case with PFC L. Russell Bloomstrom, son of Mrs. W. C. Jensen, 214 So. 17th street, Escanaba, who is with a railway battalion in Italy. He has been in service 20 months.

A few short weeks ago in far off Italy he opened a can of green beans, noticed their fine color, their excellent flavor—and looking at the label on the can discovered they were Delta county grown beans packed by the Escanaba Home Canning company.

PFC Bloomstrom wrote his mother that he finds the weather in Italy "just about what I think it would be back in Escanaba about now." He also writes that the Italians treat the boys well, invite them out for dinner—and feed them mostly spaghetti. The hosts apparently try to outdo each other, which probably means bigger and better spaghetti dishes.

Mrs. Jensen has two other sons in service, one in Burma and the other in Philadelphia. Pvt. Donald Bloomstrom is serving with an engineering battalion in the Burma jungles, writes his mother that "the heat is terrific." First Lt. John (Jack) Bloomstrom is with the signal corps at Philadelphia.

GARDENING FOR VICTORY—

There are those who look upon the family garden plot as a plot against the professional truck gardener, and there are the victory gardeners themselves who believe they are making a contribution to the nation by raising some of their own food.

Be that as it may, the Escanaba folks who are tilling the soil in the city victory gardens out at 23rd street are having fun, anyway. They are too busy with beans, onions and radishes to ponder the effect of their efforts on the nation's food market.

There is developing this year the same keen rivalry in vegetable growing that marked last year's crop raising. The amateur farmers (most of them past the amateur stage) are planting and hoeing with an eye to their neighbor's plot—and determined to bring forth better squashes or tomatoes than the man next door.

But M. A. Trams of 1125 Stephenson avenue has two garden plots, one at home and one at the victory garden area. When he works in his victory garden he tells of the better-than-marble-size tomatoes that decorate the plants at his home garden. Which makes the neighboring victory gardeners scan their own tomato plants with a disappointed eye.

Trans little green tomatoes are of the Early Victor variety. He says they are a good strain, and that he goes in for the "pinching back" method of cultivating the plants. Suckers and excess foliage are pinched off, which may sound slightly cruel but does result in bigger and earlier fruit, he claims.

LOOKING AHEAD—The Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, which had its inception back in the days when the U. P. was designated "Cloverland" and the accent was on farming, again is looking to the improvement of agriculture as a sound development service.

For many years the Development Bureau accentuated promotion of the Upper Peninsula's tourist and recreation advantages. This also was sound, for during the pre-war years the tourist business was the Upper Peninsula's chief "cash crop." It brought millions

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

Harlan J. Yelland is the first to announce his candidacy on the Republican ticket for prosecuting attorney.

The Rev. Karl J. Hammar of Escanaba will be commencement speaker at Wesley Academy and Theological Seminary at Evanston, Ill.

Gladstone—A total of 182 Gladstone men are employed on public improvement projects here, and were paid a total of $4,590 in May.

Manistiquie—Carlton D. Passenheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Passenheim, has been awarded a sabre for his excellence in drill work with the Reserve Officers Training corps at Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton.

20 Years Ago—1924

John A. Lemmer, public speaking instructor of Escanaba high school, will be speaker at graduation exercises of the Garden township high school senior class on June 12.

Gladstone—James T. Jones has returned to Gladstone from an extended trip to New York and other Eastern cities. He has been away on business for about three weeks.

25 Years Ago—1919

Miss Florence C. Day, Escanaba Carnegie Public Library librarian, left Tuesday afternoon for Negaunee to attend the annual convention of Upper Peninsula librarians.

The steamer Hazel which arrived in Green Bay to start a regular schedule of trips between Escanaba and other bay points, will run an excursion Sunday from Escanaba and Wells for the Wells-Garden baseball game.

of dollars in new money into the area for the benefit of farmer, businessman and owner of tourist facilities.

George Bishop of Marquette, secretary-manager of the Development Bureau, never lacks for ideas on ways to make his organization serve the Upper Peninsula. When the war came along it seemed somehow that the Bureau might have to do more than retrench—it might have to discontinue. Yet George Bishop knew otherwise, and has proved his point. The organization is intact, and it continues to serve in a worthwhile capacity.

Most recent service is the promotion of a program under which Upper Peninsula farmers can, by making a small down payment, have pure bred bull calves delivered to them from Lower Michigan. Then at time of delivery the farmer, after looking over the animal, can complete payment and acquire the new herd sire.

This whole pure bred sire campaign is a practical bit of post-war planning when we consider that our cheese factories, creameries and condensaries in the Upper Peninsula are in need of more milk and cream; and when we consider the over-all production of milk, cream, butter, etc., in the Upper Peninsula is at the present time inadequate to supply the consuming demands of our population," Bishop pointed out recently.

At told some 97 pure bred sires will be purchased and delivered to Upper Peninsula farmers. The first truckload arrived in Delta county some two weeks ago, and other shipments to other points will follow.

IT IS FATE—After a couple weeks unseasonably warm weather, when young folks insisted on swimming with and without suits at various unsanctioned bayshore sites, the Escanaba swimming beach was prepared for opening Saturday. This was in response to public demand.

But with an inconsistency almost as great as that of a tickle public, the weather turned from a sunny 72 to a wintry 48 degrees or so.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Fashion Note: This week Bernard Baruch received a visit from Sylvia Porter, the New York Post's financial columnist, and Hazel Zimmerman, the San Francisco investment counselor. They discussed with him the outflow of gold and the future of the American dollar. . . . Baruch studied the ladies' hats. "Don't worry, don't worry," he told them. "As long as a nation can continue to make fascinating hats, it's not in danger."

BUSINESS DEPT.: Baruch, incidentally, in discussing prosperity curves, depression waves, etc., was asked about the postwar business prospects. "Frankly," he replied, "I have no Economic Radar with which to foretell exactly the events of the future."

MUSIC: Albert Einstein, who loves to play the violin, often has visited the home of Mischa Elman. At most of these sessions, Einstein plays in a string quartet with Elman and two other musicians. . . . "How well does Einstein play, in the quartette?" Elman was asked. . . . "He plays all right," said Elman, "but sometimes he slows us up because he can't count."

SOCIAL NOTES: Dwight H. Green of Illinois was in the Stork Club with Morton Downey and some other friends. When the photographer began to pose them for a picture, Downey carefully removed all the liquor glasses from the table. . . . "Thoughtful? Of course I'm thoughtful," replied Downey, as he placed two bottles of his radio sponsor's soft drink on the table. Then Downey told the cameraman: "Now take the picture."

TRAVEL NOTE: The Gripsholm, which is bringing back the repatriated Americans, will charge less, per passenger, for this trip than for its previous trips. When the Swedish vessel first began to make these wartime voyages, the route was long and roundabout. For while both sides had agreed to respect the neutrality of the Gripsholm's flag, the route was circuitous to avoid the danger of attack. . . . For this trip, however, its course has been charted, with the approval of both sides. This makes the trip a shorter one, and therefore less expensive.

LOCAL NEWS: Whatever differences remained between Donald M. Nelson and Charles Wilson have been patched up by a mutual friend. . . . After a long absence Cliff Edwards will return to the radio. "Ukele Ike" will broadcast for the Blue Network. . . . The Hollywood Writers Mobilization Committee is sending a staff of experts to the veterans at the Birmingham General Hospital, to give a series of writing courses to the wounded men who want it. . . . The plane which took Eric Johnston, Averell Harriman and W. L. White to Moscow arrived there 10 days late. One of the passengers became ill, and a stop-off was necessary. . . . The prisoners at San Quentin aren't waiting for the 5th War Loan drive to begin, but are subscribing now. One of the bond salesmen there, in getting the advance subscriptions had the slogan: "Guns, Beat the Gun."

SPORTS DEPT.: Joe Frisco placed a long-distance phone call, collect, from Hollywood to the New York apartment of Roy Sedley, the 14 Club comic. Sedley, aware of Frisco's frequent emergencies, accepted the call. . . . "Roy," was Frisco's greeting, "d-d-does Don Meade still r-r-room with you?" . . . "Yeah, He does," replied Sedley. . . . "Then I'll h-h-hold on," said Frisco, "while you t-t-tell the jockey to get me a h-h-horse for tomorrow."

Passenger tire production during 1944 will probably total between 18 and 24 million—still far short of the 30,000,000 previously estimated as necessary.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON
(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington — Mrs. Roosevelt's blunt press-conference remarks about Winston Churchill's recent speech in the House of Commons brought out publicity what those around the White House have known for some time—that the First Lady never has been too enthusiastic about the Prime Minister.

Last summer, Churchill came to Washington after Quebec and, together with Harry Hopkins, occupied one section of the White House. There, military conferences continued day and night, with the Prime Minister walking up and down the White House corridors in flapping bedroom slippers and a great kimono.

At that time, Mrs. Roosevelt is said to have telephoned from New York to a member of her family in the White House and to have tactfully inquired: "Is that man still there?" (She was not referring to the President).

It was not the way the Prime Minister dressed or made himself at home in the White House that bothered Mrs. Roosevelt. But, according to friends, she did feel that Mr. Churchill wore her husband out with his long hours. (He often sleeps from noon until about 7 p. m., then stays up until about 3 a. m. Meanwhile, the President had to face his regular routine all day long).

Also, Mrs. Roosevelt, to her intimates, has made no secret of her belief that Mr. Churchill is living in the political past as far as the Empire is concerned. She has entertained rather liberal views on India and other British possessions, such as Hongkong. Therefore, it was no surprise to friends when Mrs. Roosevelt, asked about Churchill's speech and his references to Franco Spain, replied: "The speech was very characteristic of Mr. Churchill."

"Mr. Churchill has thought a certain way for sixty years."

—UNPROMOTED COMBAT FLIERS—
One thing that grips the boys at the front is the way a lot of the desk officers in the War Department and others here at home seem to get promotions more rapidly than the boys who are up on the firing line. Some of them feel so badly about it that they aren't anxious to come home, though given opportunities of furlough, because they are outranked by their old friends at home.

For instance, most of the new pilots just arriving in England are second lieutenants. They haven't been on any missions at all. Meanwhile, men who have been in England for two years, and have been flying over Europe constantly, still remain second lieutenants.

"How many do you have?" Asks some newly arrived pilot who has flown twice across the Channel, each flight being a mission.

"Oh, yesterday was my 34th," is the cool reply of the man who, after two years of combat flying, still is a second lieutenant.

—GOVERNOR DILL OF WASHINGTON
When ex-Senator Clarence Dill of Washington ran for Governor of Washington in 1940, he was so confident of victory that, when he filled out his autobiographical sketch for Whos Who, 1942-43 edition, he put himself down as "governor."

He was defeated. Nevertheless, Whos Who, Vol. 22, page 683, lists "Clarence C. Dill, governor." Later it states: "elected gov., State of Washington, 1940."

Maybe he was not superstitious and didn't think it was bad luck to count his chickens before they were hatched.

—BEES FOR MAVERICK—
Maury Maverick, hardworking chief of the Small War Plants Corporation, is going in for bees in his office.

Talking to Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard the other day, Maverick remarked:

"What this town needs is to study bees. They could give us all a lesson. I want to get a hive of bees in my office so folks can sit and study how they get things done."

Maverick, who gets down to his office at seven every morning, two hours ahead of his staff, was half joking, though back in Texas he did keep bees. However, Secretary Wickard was having dinner with Donald Nelson and Russell Arundel sometime later and recounted the conversation. Arundel then promised to get Maverick a hive of bees.

He has now fulfilled his promise and sent the hive to Wickard to be delivered to Maverick. The bees will be in a glass case with a hole through the window sill so they can feed on the flowers around the Capitol. The queen bee's name is Beatrice.

Arundel, who is presenting the bees, was formerly secretary to Republican ex-Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island. Maverick, informed that his bees were Republican, replied: "That's all right. I can use Republican bees—just so long as they work."

Every day is pay day for the man who really enjoys his job.

The dollars of the family are not carried in the wife's name as often as the sense.

When you clean up and flatten tin cans for the war effort, you're helping to do the same thing to the enemy.

The largest fish are caught on a line of conversation.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-262: Selma T., aged 19, is a college sophomore, taking her first course in psychology.

"I notice that the author of our textbook talks about 'conditioned reflexes' and says that 'conditioning' is one of the primary methods of learning," she said.

"Dr. Crane, what do psychologists mean by the term 'conditioning'?"

DIAGNOSIS: We do not mean what athletic coaches have in mind when they use the term to indicate that a player is hardened or toughened for intercollegiate football.

We mean, instead, that a person or animal has become habituated to a certain situation or condition.

Suppose a large fish is in one end of an aquarium and a small fish in the other, with only a glass plate between. The small fish, moreover, is the natural food of the large one.

As soon as the minnow makes a move, the big fish darts after him, but strikes the glass partition. It probably hurts his nose.

But the large fish soon forgets. A few moments later he again dives after the minnow and again gets a sore nose.

Ultimately he becomes "conditioned" adversely as regards that minnow. It represents pain instead of pleasure. Even after the glass partition is then removed, the big fish may avoid the minnow.

Conditioned Reflexes
You modern farmers now use this law of "conditioning" when you employ a single strand of wire instead of the former woven fence.

You fasten the wire with porcelain spools, so it is insulated from the ground. Then you fasten it to an electric battery.

Soon a horse or cow approaches the single wire and either reaches over the top or tries to crawl under it.

But as soon as its skin comes in contact with the charged wire, the animal gets an electric shock, for its feet on the ground make a completed electric circuit.

The animal rears back in painful surprise. It doesn't take more than one or two experiences of this sort until the animal is thus "conditioned" adversely to the wire. It stays away from it thereafter.

Psychology Applied to Mules
I heard of an Illinois farmer who used this same type of charged wire on his farm. But he had bought a new team of mules early in the spring.

Mules are smart animals. They show more sense than horses in many respects, as all of you farm folks are aware. And these mules soon learned that a single wire on a post is bad medicine.

But they generalized, and became afraid of single wires in general. The farmer didn't know this till he tried to hitch them to his corn planter last spring.

He was checking his corn, which means he used a single check wire that causes the corn to be dropped at fixed intervals, thus enabling the farmer to have straight rows both lengthwise and crosswise of the field.

The mules saw that check wire and they refused to go near the corn planter. They apparently thought the wire was electrically charged.

So the farmer had to get another team with which to plant his corn. His mules had been too well "conditioned" to wire.

Van Meer

Bad Electric Storm

Van Meer—One of the worst electric storms to hit this area in some time came on Memorial Day in the afternoon. It hit electric wires and at Van Meer destroyed a transformer so that local crews had to send out after a new one, leaving the community and school without electric power for some time. Near Wetmore the Menzie farm home was hit and burned to the ground. Mrs. James Worthing received a shock in her arm when she sat near a window and Mr. Worthing also received a slight shock when he attempted to turn a water faucet during the storm.

Menominee Couple
Married 51 Years

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Baldwin of 336 Kirby street, Menominee, parents of Roy Baldwin of this city, observed their fifty-first wedding anniversary on Monday, June 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. Baldwin, the former Anna Grossman, were married at Fort Atkinson, Wis., and lived in Chicago and in Darien, Wis., before moving to Menominee in 1908.

Mr. Baldwin, who is a pioneer Menominee barber, first operated a shop on the corner of Evidand court and Main street. He later worked for Frank Walters in the Porth building, for George Miller, L. J. Picard and A. E. Buelow and then joined J. M. Montpas in his Sheridan road shop, where he remained for seven years. Since that time he has conducted his own business and his present location is in the Rasmor building at 717 Sheridan road.

The Baldwins have four sons, Roy Baldwin of Escanaba; Fred and Leonard Baldwin of Menominee; and Darwin Baldwin in the navy. They have lived in their present home since 1917.

IT'S TEAMWORK THAT DOES IT

The 5th War Loan starts next week!

WHEREVER your invasion forces are fighting—at sea, in the air, on the ground—they're working together for victory. They know that they must depend on each other, for only by coordinated teamwork will they win through to final victory in the earliest possible time.

The Fifth War Loan starts next week. It's going to take teamwork—a lot of it—to put this drive over the top. For we've got a job to do. As the tempo of invasion rises every one of us must mobilize for support of our fighting men.

In every city, town and hamlet men and women like yourself, have banded together as war bond Volunteer Workers, giving their time to taking your subscriptions for bonds. Support them. Give them the kind of teamwork our boys are giving to each other on the fighting fronts!

When your Volunteer Worker calls, double your war bond subscription. It's their job to help raise $16 billions of money for victory during this Fifth drive, $6 billions from individuals like yourself.

Make up your mind to welcome your Victory Volunteer with a friendly smile and an open checkbook—remembering that it's teamwork that does it!

Back the Attack!—BUY MORE THAN BEFORE!

FRASHER TALKS TO ROTARIANS

Says Recreation Answer To Youth Problem Of Cities

A well-rounded program of recreation comes very close to being the answer to the juvenile delinquency problem, Cliff Frasher, recreational director, told Gladstone Rotarians yesterday noon.

In order for any recreation program to function it must have adult support for children naturally look up to their elders. It must also have spectator support for the youngsters again like to display their ability before others. There must also be competition for the participants.

Frasher told of his plans for a well-rounded program which will be for boys and girls of all ages and a portion of it for adults. Tennis and soft ball will be stressed and in addition there will be a number of other games including volleyball and horseshoe pitching. A special award went to Mrs. Donald Renard.

A volleyball court will be set up at the beach as well as a horseshoe court.

Equipment is being readied and efforts are being made to officially open the swimming season on Wednesday.

Instruction in swimming will be given to beginners and later advanced swimming instruction classes will be started. Frasher said that lifesaving and resuscitation methods had been stressed too much, in his opinion, in many places and said that if proper swimming instruction is given that the need for the other is not so great.

Leo Anderson Is Chief Lifeguard

Leo Anderson has been engaged as head lifeguard and will serve at the Gladstone beach during the summer months. It is announced by Acting City Manager H. J. Hendrikson.

Two assistants are to be engaged. They will serve as lifeguards during rush periods and at other times will work in the park keeping it in shape.

Anderson has had many years experience in lifeguard duty and qualifies as a Red Cross lifesaving examiner.

COUNTY AIRPORT PLANNING BEGUN

State Officials Here On Saturday State $1,290 Is Available

Schoolcraft county can have an outright appropriation of $1,290 from the state of Michigan for airport planning purposes, a local committee was told here Saturday when they met with two members of the State Board of Aeronautics at the court house here.

This fund has been set up for airport planning in Michigan and no matching funds from the recipients are necessary. Schoolcraft county officials were urged to take advantage of this fund and make plans for extension of the county airport located on US-2 east of the city of Manistique. Considerable discussion took place on the ways and means of developing an airport in order to keep abreast of future developments in an economical manner.

Meeting with the local committee were C. K. Stephens, airport engineer, and George G. Ross, planning consultant, both members of the Michigan Board of Aeronautics. These men are conducting a county by county tour of the state preparatory to future airport development. On the local committee were members of the Board of Supervisors airport committee, Paschal W. Jewett, Walter Burns and Cecil Johnson, as well as other interested persons, including W. W. Davidson, Louis Teho, Charles Manson, Harvey Quick and A. W. Heltman.

The state men advised that an airport construction fund is being developed through the tax on aviation gasoline.

At the local county airport, the site is adequate as far as can be ascertained at the present time, they said. Soil on the airport is heavy and is adequate for small planes. The 160 acres of the county airport is adequate for a class three field, they said. Although a class three airport is designed for cities over 25,000 it is highly desirable that Schoolcraft county airport be in this class because of future expectations of air traffic in this location, it was decided.

Each Senior Will Get 6 Tickets for Graduation Week

Graduating seniors of Manistique high school are requested by Principal Carl Olson to call for their admittance tickets for Class Day and Baccalaureate programs.

Each senior is eligible to receive six tickets for use by his parents and friends. It is pointed out that these tickets will be honored at the door only until ten minutes prior to the beginning of the program. Ten minutes before the program starts the doors will be opened to the public. Seats will not be reserved. Balcony seats are also open to the public for all graduation programs.

The seniors' decorating committee will meet Thursday at 3:30 p. m. to decorate for the class day program. All members of this committee are urged to be on time.

At 10 a. m. Friday the entire senior class will meet for a rehearsal of class day and baccalaureate programs. Seniors are asked to contact the principal before that time to settle their book deposit funds. This rehearsal will be attended by members of the orchestra, band, glee club, mixed ensemble and soloists.

Official pictures of the seniors in caps and gowns will be taken Friday at 1:45 p. m. in the junior high entrance.

CALL 12 MEN TO ARMY, NAVY

Six Go To Army June 13 And Six To Navy On June 14

The Schoolcraft county draft board has issued orders to report for induction to six men for army service and six men for navy service after receiving their official call last week-end.

The army contingent will leave first, going to Fort Sheridan on June 13. Naval selectees will leave June 14 for Milwaukee.

In compliance with Selective Service orders, all men called for induction are under age 25, the local board reports.

Army selectees include Alfred Popow, Lester Russell, Laurel Henry, Willard Davidson, William Adams and Carl Hokenson. Those leaving for the navy will be Richard Wilde, Lawrence Sablack, Gerald Swagart, Ralph Davis, Richard Weber and Henry Dishman.

Men over age 26 will not be ordered for induction until further orders are received from state headquarters, the local board states. Only exception to this rule will be volunteers.

Board Of Review In Session Here Through Thursday

The Manistique board of review and equalization began a four day session in the city hall yesterday for the purpose of reviewing the city assessment rolls.

The board will continue in session this week through Thursday during the hours of 8 to 12 a. m. and 1:30 to 5 p. m. The board will hear complaints and review the assessment rolls, making changes in valuations wherever they find it necessary and reasonable.

Sitting on the board are Mayor Walter Burns, A. W. Heltman, Lester Richards, Louis Teho, Sherman McNeil and City Assessor Frank Volsine and Acting City Clerk Charles Manson.

Assessed valuation of the city will be completed Thursday, and it is generally expected that an increase will be made. The 1944 assessed valuation of the city is $5,782,575.

St. Louis Teams Set Pace In Major Leagues; Cards Play .615 Ball

FARM SYSTEM AIDS IN WAAF

Birdie Tebbetts Turns Out Top Baseball Teams At Waco

Waco, Tex., June 5 (AP)—Birdie Tebbetts, who knew about baseball farm systems while catching for the Detroit Tigers, has found the army with one that's both efficient and convenient. From it he has put together a couple of clubs comparable in ability with the majors. As manager of the nine at Waco Army Air Field, Birdie produced an outfit that won 52 or 62 games and the state semi-pro title last year. Now he's back with one that looks as good or better; it has taken nine of ten games. Birdie's "farm system" is the intramural sports program. Tebbetts watches the squadrons games and get plenty of material. His system is more convenient than the kind in the majors because he can just walk across the lot and recruit ball players. No scouting, no waits, no contract troubles. Al Kasperek tossed an intramural no-hitter. His next appearance was with the WAAF team. Second Baseman Pat Padgett, Catcher George Delk and several others followed the same course. On Tebbetts' squad are such fellows as Sid Hudson, former Washington ace who won 18 games last season and has taken three this year without allowing an earned run; Buster Mills, ex-big league outfielder; Hoot Evers, property of the Tigers, and many others of known pro ball ability. But unless you'd rather play baseball than eat, you can't be on the WAAF team, because baseball at the air field, comes only after heavy demands of army routine have been met.

Giants Win, But Not Quite As Expected

BY WHITNEY MARTIN New York, June 5 (AP)—The Giants had just won the first game of a double header from the Cubs and John P. Carmichael arose from his seat in the Polo Grounds press box, stretched, and remarked with some resignation: "Well, I wonder what new way we'll find to lose the next one." John P. Carmichael is the wandering sports editor of the Chicago Daily News, and naturally is interested in the fortunes of the Chicago team. Had he been a New Yorker he would have said: "I wonder what new way we'll find to win the next one." Which would be a legitimate wonder, as the Giants were in the throes of a winning streak quite as mysterious and tenacious as the Cubs' losing streak. The Cubs, on paper, have a much better club than their record indicates. But they haven't been winning consistently, perhaps because the other clubs don't read the paper. Charley Grimm and Bear-Hit have a good mixture of robust veterans and just about the pick of the 1943 rookie crop, but the pitching has been nothing extra. We figured the Giants would be dangerous if four men—Mel Ott, Ernie Lombardi, Joe Medwick and Phil Weintraub—could coordinate their power, as all are sluggers. Well, Ott is the only one of the four who has been putting the blast on the ball, yet the team ran up an impressive winning string. The power, with the exception of Ott, came from unexpected sources, such as Atlas-armed Danny Gardella, a Bronx boy so stubborn he looks like circus roustabouts had worked on him with mallets; Napoleon Reyes, a big Cuban, and even lanky Johnny Rucker, who ordinarily makes a home run only the day after the season ends. It's hard for New York fans to reconcile themselves to the picture of home runs and other evidence of power exploding all over the Polo Grounds while across the river the Yankee Stadium, usually associated with noisy blows, has been as quiet as a business suit. This year, however, the Giants seem to have the power and only fair pitching while the Yankees have the pitching and only fair power. That's quite a swap from the situation of recent years. Like watching the cats chase the dogs for a change. Nobody begrudges the Giants their new-found success, as Manager Ott is tremendously popular, as is everybody's friend, Secretary Eddie Brannick, and the fans have suffered with them through the lean days of recent years. Success couldn't come to two nicer guys. How long the success will continue is problematical. The Giants started the season with a winning streak of five games, and then abruptly stood at parade rest while the other clubs walked on their toes. However, if the unexpected power continues to express itself and the potential power men start clicking, the team could cause plenty of grief in the league, particularly if it could play all its games in its own cracker box. The Ottmen have it graphed for home runs.

DIAMOND BALL

DAILY PRESS WINS The Daily Press softball team defeated the Wells Juniors Sunday morning in an age vs. youth encounter in which age triumphed narrowly, 10-9. The Wells team broke into a 5-1 lead in the first inning but the Press forged ahead, 10-7 in the fourth and held this advantage until two men were out in the last of the seventh, when the juniors brought in their final two runs. The summary: Daily Press ----- 121 600 0-10 Wells Juniors ----- 511 000 2-9 McCarthy and Berbe; Anderson and Stoykovich. WHITE BIRCH 9, ELKS 4 Backing up the Lancour and Lancour battery, the White Birch-ers defeated the Elks 9 and 4. The losing pitcher was Mylander, with Hirn on the receiving end. BREVORTS WIN The Brevorts defeated the Coast Guards last night, 6 and 4. L & L VICTORS In a game at No. 1 softball diamond last night the L & L team defeated the Post Peellers 16 to 2. Molin's home run for the winners highlighted the game. Box score: L & L ----- 016 232 2-16 21 1 Post Peellers 200 000 0-2 3 4 L & L—Elegert and Wood. Post Peellers—Byrath and Severson. Vern Kennedy Stays On Suspension List Cleveland, June 5 (AP)—Pitcher Vernon Kennedy of the Cleveland Indians remained "suspended indefinitely" despite a conference today with Manager Lou Boudreau. Charging Kennedy with "insubordination and conduct detrimental to the club," the Cleveland manager imposed the penalty between halves of a double header with the New York Yankees yesterday. "Kennedy is still indefinitely suspended and that is all I have to say about it," Boudreau declared after the conference.

SENATORS AND YANKEES FLOP

American Loop Maintains Close Race; Washington Drops To Cellar

BY JACK HAND New York, June 5. (AP)—St. Louis showed them how it's done in both major leagues with the Cards and Browns pacing the west to decisive inter-sectional victories in the second east-west series which ended with Sunday's doubleheaders. Billy Southworth's Red Birds played .615 ball in taking eight of 13 starts as the National invaders captured 28 and lost 24 in their tour of the east, a tabulation today shows. The New York Yankees and Washington Senators flopped badly on their first long jaunt and not a single eastern club in the American was able to win as many as it lost. Although the Yanks had a two and a half game lead when they headed west, they lost eight and won only five in sinking into second, a game and a half back of the Browns who took 10 of 15 for a giddy .667 pace. Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis handed the visitors a bad shelling, 33 games to 23, only the Indians failing to manage a .500 clip. Detroit Collects Seven While the Browns took over first, Detroit had a seven-game streak and Chicago spun a six-game skein that has not been broken. Pre-season dopsters labeled the eastern clubs as the class of the American league and the west tops in the National. So far, they have been half right. The senior loop has been dominated by St. Louis, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh but the Harbridge circuit has only the McCarthy crew from the east in the first division. Washington, an early choice, plummeted to the cellar by losing two Sunday but the race has been so tight that a couple of ball games could shuffle the standings. Only five and a half games separated first from last in the American as all clubs in both loops enjoyed an open date in their schedules. Washington left home in third place and returned in last. Chicago started its home stand in the basement and finished in fourth. The Cardinals added only a half game to their lead because Pittsburgh and Cincinnati kept pace. The Nationals big surprise was the surge of the New York Giants from sixth into the first division with the help of seven straight wins and a flurry of home runs. The Phils, a surprising contender in the first month, fell from fourth place to seventh, 10 games behind St. Louis.

Reserves, Junior High Tracksters Will Meet Today

The senior high school reserves and the junior high school tracksters will hold a dual track meet this afternoon at four o'clock at the Escanaba athletic field. The reserve entries are: Shotput—Wickholm, Scott and Corbett; broad jump—Schils and Peterson; high jump—Schils and Ross; pole vault—Weir, Peterson, Scott, Gomerac and Ross; 50 yd. dash—McDonald, Larson and R. Theoret; 100 yd. dash—Ellason, Lancour and Shepeck; 440 relay—Anderson, Gabourie, D. Theoret and D. Dufresne. The junior high entries: 50 yd. dash—John Besson, Jack Peterson, Robert Maisonneuve, Richard Couchene; 100 yd. dash—Belanger, Couchene, Besson and Peterson; broad jump—Lloyd Grabowski, John Besson, Wendell Buckland, Art Dahlin, Arne Belanger, Adolore Pare; high jump—Grabowski, Priets, Kress, Dahlin, Houle, Loren Johnson, Jud Peterson, Bill Turner; shotput—Gordon Schils, Bill Turner and Dave Priets; relay—Belanger, Couchene, Besson, Peterson.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

The Hume twins, Ross and Bob, of the University of Michigan, will compete in the N. C. A. A. track meet at Milwaukee Saturday but it is doubtful that the Wolverine twins will be able to finish the mile run with locked arms for the gold medal. Frank Martin, the outstanding Notre Dame athlete, is regarded as the favorite in both the mile and two mile races and although either Ross or Bob Hume may upset the Notre Dame star, track experts doubt that the twins will be able to jockey into a tie. The U. S. Naval Air Force soon will embrace a total of 37,700 plane, the mightiest naval air force in world history. The Navy already has 65 aircraft carriers in service, nine times as many as it had only two and a half years ago. The total area of their flight decks is enough to make 120 football fields, or an airstrip seven miles long. This is one reason why U-boats today are sinking less than one half of one percent of all convoys ships in the Atlantic—and why the Nazis are losing more than one U-boat for every allied merchant ship they are able to sink. The average combat life of the U-boat today is less than the amount of time required to build it. A member of a Marine Corps amphibian tractor battalion which took part in the occupation of Emirau Island found that the English spoken by all South Sea island natives isn't limited to the pidgin variety. Working after a heavy rain, tractors had churned an area into a sea of mud. The Marine was engaged in cleaning some of the mud from the treads when he saw an interested native standing by. "Heap much mud," said the Leatherneck, conversationally. "Yes," replied the native in flawless English, "this place is certainly a mess." Capt. Don Gentile, of Pi-qua, Ohio, who has destroyed 30 German planes, reports that the tactics of a fighter squadron are much like those of a football team. It's teamwork that pays off in the battles of the air. Formations and maneuvers are practiced and perfected to afford maximum protection for the plane or planes in the best position to carry the attack to the enemy. In football, this called running interference and in the air, it is known as providing cover. It all adds up to the same thing, however—cooperation and teamwork. This may explain why so many of America's top pilots are former football players. Hit and Miss—Bill Puckelwartz junior high school coach and well known sports official, will be an instructor at a boys' camp in the east again this summer. Coach Leo Brunelle of Stephenson will be up to his ears in studies at NMCE, Marquette, again. Tennis will have its busiest summer this year since the nation entered the war. Many of the important tournaments, shelved last year, are being revived.

PRICES SLOWED BY GOOD NEWS

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA New York, June 5 (AP)—Selling on the good news, a long-established custom in Wall Street, gave today's stock market a distinctly lower tilt. While the fall of Rome was highly encouraging to the financial sector, this eventuality apparently had been well discounted in the recent average price advance to a 5-year peak. The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .8 of a point at 52.4, widest dip since May 12. Transfers totaled 538,200 shares versus 519,300 in the preceding full session. Park & Tilford was one of the few heavier issues, dropping 4 3/4 points. Lessor casualties were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Schenley, Texas Co., Johns-Manville, United Aircraft, Kennecott, Deere and U. S. Gypsum. American & Foreign Power, 7 per cent preferred was up 2 1/8 on reorganization optimism but the company's common, on fears it may fail to participate in a new deal, fell to 3 1/4, off 3/4 at a new 1944 bottom. BOND LOSSES SMALL New York, June 5 (AP)—A tinge of irregularity crept into the bond market today when some rail issues came into moderate supply and buyers were more aggressive in other groups. Losses were generally small, however, and the market, for many plus signs at the close, especially among the investment rated industrials and utilities. Sales of $5,225,000 compared with $11,279,000 last Friday. National Distillers 3 1/2 of 1949 had the unusually heavy turnover of $152,000 and were nearly 100 per cent higher at one point. The bonds ended up 1/2 at 105 1/2. Other active and slightly higher issues included New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s, Kansas City, St. Louis & Memphis 4s, Katy 4s and Northern States Power 3 1/2s. Certificates representing Missouri Pacific series "G" of 1948 named 1.58 points to 67 1/8 on sale of 5 bonds but other obligations of the road ended under water along with numerous others, including bonds of the New Haven, Rock Island, Baltimore & Ohio and International Telephone. U. S. governments were quiet but steady. Bonds of Brazil, Argentina and Columbia stood out with modest rises in an otherwise quiet foreign department. CHICAGO PRICES CHICAGO BUTTER Chicago, June 5 (AP)—(WFA)—Butter was firm today and unchanged at GFA ceilings. CHICAGO EGGS Chicago, June 5 (AP)—(WFA)—Eggs were fairly steady; large specials, 35 to 36 1/2; large extras, 32 to 35; medium extras, 28 to 30; standards, 31 1/2 to 32 1/2; current receipts, 30 1/2 to 31 1/2; dirties, 24 to 26 1/2; chicks, 23 to 26. Cubs Third Base Lures Stan Hack

Chicago, June 5 (AP)—Stan Hack, Chicago Cub veteran, will leave his Oregon ranch and take up third base duties with the club in about a week, Jim Gallagher, Cub vice president, said today. Hack, who battled .289 last year—his 12th with the Cubs—decided to stay on his ranch this season and announced his retirement from baseball. However, the Cubs had been reported to be keeping in touch with the 34-year-old 1943 team captain with the hopes of luring him back.

Minneapolis Takes Discarded Hogsett

Detroit, June 5 (AP)—Given his unconditional release by the Detroit American League baseball club, Elton "Chief" Hogsett, veteran pitcher, was enroute today to Minneapolis to rejoin the American Association club of that city. Hogsett who finished the season with Minneapolis last year, joined the Tigers this spring but had been used in only five innings. The 12th model of the P-38 Lightning fighter embodies several major improvements, including an increase of 30 per cent in horsepower, a gain in rate of climb which at 30,000 feet amounts to 100 per cent, and an increase in range of 30 per cent.

This rule against raiders

EVERYONE may have his share of needed things, but none can have another's—the times have made that rule a national "must." A rationed share for all and for all alike—nothing could be more fair or more essential. And the same kind of fairness underlies restrictions placed on your purchases of IMPERIAL. Every distillery in America is helping meet the great need for war alcohol, and the present supply of whiskey must be made to last—it's "all there is." So you may be asked to buy less than you would like of this grand, "velvety" whiskey. But we think you'll agree that some for all is fairer than all for some. In spite of the whiskey shortage there has been no change in the official price of IMPERIAL except for new federal excise taxes.

CARD OF THANKS
It is with a feeling of sincere gratitude that we this means of expressing our deep appreciation and thanks to our neighbors and friends for their kindnesses shown us in our recent sad bereavement. The sudden death of our beloved son and brother, Lt. Harold R. Peterson. We are very grateful to Rev. J. Melvin Hedlin, Rev. F. E. Peterson and Rev. H. J. Prokranz for their comforting words and other manifestations of sympathy to the American Legion, to those who served as pallbearers, to those who sent floral bouquets, to those who offered the use of their cars and to all those who in any way helped to lighten our burden of sorrow. Your kindness will always be held in grateful remembrance. Signed: MR. AND MRS. EDWARD PETERSON, MRS. MARGARET CARSON, LAWRENCE PETERSON. 7733-158-1f

Lightning Strikes
During the severe electrical storm experienced here Tuesday evening, lightning struck one of the farm buildings at the Donna Barron farm, causing a blaze which was first sighted by a neighbor, Wilfred Beauchamp.

The blaze was quickly extinguished before much damage was done.

ESCAPED NAZIS NOT YET TAKEN

Many Roads Barricaded; Believe Civilians Aided Germans

Three German prisoners-of-war who escaped late Saturday or early Sunday morning from a woods camp near Au Train were still at large last night, although state police, FBI agents, conservation department and sheriff's officers were patrolling and watching barricades along all principal highways in the Upper Peninsula. It was reported from the Gladstone state police post yesterday that blockades were in effect at Seney, Rapid River, Sault and other strategic highway points. Besides these other officers were "free lance" patrolling. Four conservation officers from the Escanaba district were on duty with the officers.

Officers said at Marquette that it is possible the three Nazis were given civilian assistance in making their getaway.

Officers and the public have been asked to watch for a 1936 model black Chevrolet coach with wire wheels, which was seen near Rumlax, where the German prisoners had been working, and later near the Au Train camp in which they were quartered. Two middle-aged civilians were riding in the car.

Persons seeing either the car or the prisoners are requested by officers to contact the nearest police station or sheriff's office.

The Nazis are:

Karl Theis, 36. He is five feet, nine inches in height, weighs 161 pounds, has gray eyes, blonde hair and a ruddy complexion.

Adams Wagner, 25. He is five feet, seven inches in height, weighs 143 pounds, has blue eyes, wavy brown hair and is partly bald.

Erich Hoessel, 23. He is five feet, eight inches in height, weighs 157 pounds, has blue eyes, brown hair (straight and combed back), fair complexion, small eyes and a thin face.

Hoessel, the officers said, speaks the English language fluently.

Escanaba Board Of Review In Session

Only a few small adjustments in valuations were made by the Escanaba board of review and equalization at its opening session on Monday in the county at city hall. The board is expected to be in session all week and will later make several investigations of property values.

The assessed valuation in the city this year is $7,950,420. The tentative valuation for next year as reported by the city assessor is about $20,000 less than this figure.

The board of review is composed of Mayor Sam Wickman, Supervisors Elmer Klassell, Mathias Peterson, Charles Priestner and City Clerk Carl Anderson, who also serves as city assessor.

Churchill And Roosevelt Often In Disagreement

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Two men could hardly be more unlike each other than President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill. To his associates FDR presents an outward air of detachment and calm. Churchill, all through the past weeks, has been intensely preoccupied with the big event to come, brooding over its outcome and its consequences.

Completely absorbed in preparations for the great offensive, Churchill has brushed aside any talk about what is to happen after the war. He simply won't hear it.

That is the explanation given by those who have seen him recently for his "kind words" for Franco Spain. They say that he was thinking solely of Spain to day in relation to the supreme test of Allied arms. He knows—as anyone else that Dictator Franco cannot long survive the end of the war.

Tells Story on Himself
For all his preoccupation with the events on which so much turns, Churchill's humanness comes out from time to time. Not long ago he told a story on himself which gave the war cabinet a good laugh. It was a story which had already gained wide currency but Churchill furnished details that were new.

The Prime Minister had been impressed with the political reports from America sent by Isaiah Berlin, a member of the British Embassy staff in Washington. Hearing that Berlin was on a visit to London, the Prime Minister told a secretary to ask him around to lunch at No. 10 Downing street. At the appointed time, the two men sat down to lunch alone and Churchill began to quiz the Embassy secretary on political developments in the United States.

The responses were remarkably weak. The great man was first puzzled and then a little irritated. Finally he said, half in reproach:

"You know, Mr. Berlin, I have studied your work very carefully." Looking startled, Mr. Berlin replied: "Why, Mr. Prime Minister, I didn't know that you cared for light music." Through a mistake, Irving Berlin, who was also in London, had been invited to lunch instead of Isaiah Berlin. The Prime Minister could chuckle over that with the members of his cabinet.

His interest in American politics is a continuing one. He knows that any British interference, or even seeming interference, will do great harm in this country. No British official will breathe a word about his politics.

Nevertheless, with American visitors, Churchill finds it hard to keep back his own feelings. With one such visitor not long ago, he talked about "the team"—The Roosevelt-Stalin-Churchill team—and the importance of keeping it together during the war and its immediate aftermath. His visitor, it happened, was a lifelong Republican who remonstrated a little at this. Churchill still insisted it was important for "the team" to go on working together.

Disagrees With F. D. R.
He has had some rather sharp disagreements with Roosevelt, some of them face to face, others by long distance. These have involved, on several occasions, Churchill's concept of colonies and "subject peoples." The American president and the British Prime Minister have found themselves diametrically opposed.

At Teheran, there was something like a showdown. Whether the differences have since been reconciled, only the principals know. Churchill may stand pat on the question of colonies and the empire.

That would then give the vote of the third member of the team—Stalin—decisive importance. At Teheran, Stalin was with Roosevelt, as Chiang Kai-Shek had been at Cairo. It must always be remembered, however, that what Stalin wants above everything else is a peaceful, orderly world in which Russia can be rebuilt.

Uncle Joe might decide that there would be less confusion if everything was put back—as it was before 1939. Therein, his views might coincide with Churchill's.

The British aristocrat and the Georgian peasant's son have had at least one major row—at the time Churchill visited Moscow in 1942. But they are both supremely realistic and they both know what they want.

Groundhog Goes Cold

The groundhog's temperature falls to about 37 degrees, or just above freezing, and its heart slows down to less than 10 beats a minute during its hibernation.

Newberry Concern Buys Bus Service

Ishpeming—The Northland Lines, operated for passenger service between Ishpeming and Marquette for the last 20 years have been purchased, effective June 1, by Jesse L. and John A. Barrett, Newberry, who have been operating the Superior Bus Line between Marquette and the Soo.

The Barrett company will maintain the name Northland Lines for the entire system, it was stated by John A. Barrett, who came to close the transaction. Howard Johnson, formerly of Marquette and recently of Newberry, will be Marquette county manager for the Northland Lines, with headquarters in Ishpeming.

Effective June 1 the Northland lines have had its Marquette headquarters at the Hotel Clifton, in Negaunee at the Breitung Hotel, and in Ishpeming at its own terminal and the Mather Inn.

Connect With "400"
Two features of the acquisition of the Northland by Barrett will be thorough bus service between Ishpeming and the Soo and connections with the "400" at Negaunee, morning and night, for Marquette passengers.

Ishpeming passengers will be able to take the bus here at 7:15 a. m. and be in the Soo at 2 p. m. Returning, they leave the Soo at 3 p. m., arriving in Ishpeming at 9:45.

For Marquette passengers on the "400" the bus will leave the Hotel Clifton at 6:15 a. m. to connect with the outgoing "400" at Negaunee and, leaving Ishpeming at 10:45, the night bus will make connections with the incoming "400" and proceed to Marquette.

Chalk Bares Tire Abuses

The New York Department of Sanitation places heavy chalk marks on the sides of the tires of its vehicles to record careless rubbing of tires against curbs.

The Madeira, tributary of the Amazon river, is nearly 3,000 miles from source to mouth.

Briefly Told

Fined For Assault—Lawrence and Lee Massa of Escanaba, pleading guilty to an assault and battery charge, paid court costs and made restitution totaling $19.70 in Justice Henry Ranguette's court yesterday. The complainant was Mrs. Albert Clark of 1426 North 23rd street.

Investigate Report—Escanaba police reported that at 10:30 p. m. Saturday they found no one in Lakeview cemetery, although residents of the 100 block, South 22nd street, notified police they heard a woman crying there.

K. of C. Meeting — A regular meeting of Escanaba Council, Knights of Columbus, will be held at the K. of C. club rooms this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. Officers urge that all members and particularly members of the class recently initiated be present.

Timber Cruiser Finds His Work Interesting

Newberry, Mich.—H. C. Lawrence, cruiser and surveyor of the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company, is the subject of an interesting article appearing in the current issue of Timber Topics, trade publication of the Allis-Chalmers company of Milwaukee. The article reads as follows:

Do you like to do scientific research work? Are you an innate lover of the forest? Then I'd advise you to turn cruiser and surveyor like H. C. Lawrence of Newberry, Mich.

When the Newberry Lumber and Chemical company decides upon purchasing a new forest area, Lawrence is called upon by the company to cruise the entire territory. (A cruiser in the forestry industry is a timber estimator.) In cruising a proposed area, Lawrence must include in his report the variety of species of timber on the plot of land as well as the number of 1000 b. f. of each.

Cruising Procedure Same

The procedure of cruising trees is much the same wherever trees grow with the exception of the Northwest Pacific where the size of trees, density and topography made the operations unique though much of the difference lies only in the size and quantity of the equipment. It is important to have an inventory of the number of trees and the amount of wood they contain, plus a type map showing the species and condition of the various trees. This information is gathered on the "cruise," which means tramping through the forest or woodland, making an actual count and taking accurate measurement of the trees.

A most interesting phase of the cruiser's work is to hunt the witness marks which are concealed behind the bark of certain trees. These witness marks are the sole means of detecting correct land boundaries in the event that the corner marks are destroyed.

Data at Capitol

An experienced cruiser will first correspond with Washington surveying authorities before starting a new assignment. Through Washington he obtains a photograph of the original notes for the particular territory which he is ordered to cruise. The information received naturally includes facts and data regarding the witness marks on trees in that particular area.

For example, one bit of data told Lawrence that two ax notches were made on a certain hemlock tree in the year 1850. Since all trees grow from the top, the position of the ax marks would be unchanged. After finding what he thought to be the proper location and tree, Lawrence chopped into the bark and tree 4 1/2 inches where he discovered the original witness marks. This means that Lawrence had located one of the trees which possessed the original witness marks, which in turn told him the boundary limits for that area in that direction. It also revealed to Lawrence that the hemlock had grown 9 1/2 inches in diameter from 1850 to 1943.

On another hemlock whose data was recorded in the same year, Lawrence found that after 50 years the bark hadn't even grown over the original marks. Further investigation revealed that a huge yellow birch in the near proximity had stunted the normal growth of the hemlock. Hence the witness marks on the hemlock hadn't healed properly.

Oak Grows Slowly
In a later study another set of historical notes from Washington put Lawrence on the trail of an oak tree which had a diameter of 3 inches in the year 1850. When Lawrence found the proper location and tree, it had soon shown him that the oak had only increased its diameter a mere 2 inches in 80 years. This verified the fact that while oak is a long lived tree, it is definitely a slow growing piece of timber.

H. C. Lawrence has been doing "cruising" work for the past 27 years, and he is keenly interested in his findings.
